With charts, simpler is always better. To keep things even clearer, when you have one or two values, just show the numbers.